

CRYPTOPIA WHITEPAPER

Cryptopia is the website where I, Diego, an Italian guy born in 2001, share my experience in the crypto world. I've been following this world since 2020 and since September 2022, I have been actively working as a researcher and writer for some DeFi projects.

Since I started playing an active role in the construction and development of DeFi, I have begun to understand technical aspects that I didn't grasp when I was just a spectator. I want to share what I have learned and what I'm learning every day on this website.

Cryptopia will serve as a repository for everything I do and there will be two main topics:

1. Portfolio Updates: Here, I will share my portfolio and provide a complete report on every transaction completed within it. At the beginning of this project, I decided to start with a value of $3,000. The short-term goal is to increase the dollar countervalue and the long-term goal is to obtain a semi-passive income to support my daily expenses.
2. Crypto Research: To decide which crypto projects to focus on, one must first conduct research. Here, I will deposit all my personal research efforts aimed at guiding my investments and speculations.

I have an active investment/speculation philosophy because I am convinced that as of today, in the summer of 2023, the crypto market is still highly inefficient and significant results can be achieved even starting with very small initial sums.

This website is primarily for my own use, to keep track of all the actions I take and to assist me in the decision-making process for my portfolio choices. Nevertheless, everything will be made public.

If you want to get to know me better and join this community, there is the twitter profile and discord channel.
